

Continuing with the part whole model, children can use objects to help them count and partition the whole number into parts. The middle of the robot is the whole and the left side is one part and you have to find the other part. Check the part is correct by counting the two parts together.

Whole = part + part

